have chosen this region as their base because most of their clients are doing their business from there. This fact has given the reputation of digital hub of Germany, she added. Shah emphasized on four Cs which stand for customers, connectivity, communication and curiosity. Any company willing to do business from Frankfurt needs to take care of the Cs. The international business region boasts to have 25 universities with so many engineering courses and 190 domestic and international banks. Indian community has a strong presence over there with more than 7,000 persons and for convenience of Indian business fraternity FRM will open an office in India for speeding up the clearing visa and other formalities.

Dr Johannes Weisser threw light on the legal aspects of business in Germany and said that laws of the country ensure smooth, simple, lucid and business friendly rules. The laws for corporate houses, business, civil, criminal, contract, labour, partnership agreement, stock corporation, registration and takeover are very clear. In case of legal dispute it does not take much time to get judgment, Dr Weisser claimed and said that strike in Frankfurt is a rare thing to find.

Richard Kirchberg, senior manager India, apprised the audience with BREXIT, UK quitting European Union in June. He gave a pragmatic and factual insight to the audience about the consequences of the development and said that it has rattled the European business world. It has triggered uncountable uncertainties and prompted business fraternity to think twice before taking any radical decision of their business.

Massia president Vijay Lekurwale presided the seminar and former CMIA president Milind Kank was the chief guest. Maneesh Gupta, Sumit Malani, Anil Patil, Sunil Mokate and Amit Aute welcomed the dignitaries.

Abhijeet Kulkarni conducted the proceedings and proposed a vote of thanks. Over 100 representatives of local industries attended the seminar.

Retired policemen demand cashless medical facility

Aurangabad, Sept 1: The association of retired police officers and constabulary staffers demanded the facility of cashless medical services to its members and also the formation of a welfare board for them. A delegation of the association led by Santaram Mane and James Ambildhage called on chief minister Devendra Fadnavis in Subhedari Guest House and presented him a memorandum of demands on Sunday.

The memorandum read that a recreation centre and a reading room should be built for the wards of the association members which will have gymnasium, swimming pool, garden and commercial shops.
