Governing a German Company during the COVID-19 Crisis

The German legislator recently enacted a COVID-19 Act, which has a massive impact on international companies' operations. It also makes changes to the rights, duties and liabilities of international executives – so, what do you need to know?

We will give you a practical update on

- » Amendments to German insolvency laws relating to the suspension of directors' duties, and the consequences for the personal liability of executives.
- » Virtual shareholders' meetings: the participation of international shareholders, and minority shareholders' rights to information. How to deal with the new world via webex, skype and zoom, etc.
- » Managing and supervisory board resolutions: participation, and information about the rights of international directors/officers.
- » Contracts and COVID-19: the impact on force majeure clauses, and a company's right to refuse to perform or meet its contractual obligations.
- » Commercial leases and COVID-19: the impact on lessees' obligations, and restrictions on a landlords' rights of termination. Comments on the Adidas case.
